

New Clinics Open in Tunbridge Wells

Over the last few weeks No. 8 and No 6. Chilton Road have undergone a complete renovation with the opening of two new clinics.

Samantha Kelly opened her advanced beauty treatment clinic on February 11th.

Trained in Harley Street as a facial aesthetic nurse, Sam was previously with the Liongate Clinic in Tunbridge Wells – her new clinic is just next door at No.6a and promises to offer a discreet, unpretentious service within a luxurious environment.

She hopes people will leave their preconceptions at the door; her clinic offers new and existing clients a completely bespoke service, focusing on building a personal relationship and offering them individually-tailored treatment programmes. Regulars at the clinic will also benefit from a loyalty reward programme.

Samantha will be joined by a team of highly experienced health and beauty professionals: Dion Bayley, whose holistic treatments include hot stone massage, luxury pedicures and advanced Skinceuticals facial treatments. Dr Simonne Carvin (featured on TV's Extreme Makeover and in Grazia and Good Housekeeping) offers Botox, Sculptura & Micro-Sclerotherapy (elimination of leg veins) for men and women. A stylist and make-up artist, and a reflexologist are also set to join the team later in the year, adding to the complete face and body make-over packages available at the clinic.

Samantha says: "I aim to use the highest quality products - all FDA approved – which ultimately costs me more, but I'd much rather use safe products which have been thoroughly researched".

New clients will enjoy a free 30-minute initial consultation during which their needs are assessed and specific treatments suggested. "Starting treatments as early as possible", she says, "is the key to maintaining beautiful skin".

Meanwhile, No 8. the former Liongate Clinic, is now the home of the Atman Clinic which recently moved from St Johns Road.

The building has undergone a major renovation offering spacious, beautifully presented rooms.

The Atman Clinic is a busy Osteopathic Centre and also offers fully serviced treatment rooms for associated alternative healthcare practitioners.
